TO PRESIDE IN PR. WM. COURT.

Judge Barley Commissioned by Governor to Act for Judge Thornton.

(Special Dispatch to the Gazette.)

Richmond, Jan. 21.—Judge L. C. Barley, of Alexandria, was today commissioned by Governor Mann, to hold a part of the February term of the Circuit Court of Prince William for Judge J. B. T. Thornton. He will hear cases in which it is improper for Judge Thornton to sit.

NEWS OF THE DAY

Rev. J. H. Foster, a prominent Baptist minister of Atlanta, Ga., has been turned over by his wife to young and pretty Mrs. Maude Deane, whom the preacher calls his soul mate. Mrs. Foster announces that she will not prosecute her husband and Mrs. Deane, who were recently arrested on a statutory charge. Foster and Mrs. Deane admitted their illicit relations. "I think it is batter for all concerned to let Mrs. Deane have my husband," said Mrs. Foster. "I shall not prosecute." "I am glad Mrs. Foster has decided to act sensibly," said Foster. "If she had reached that decision long ago this trouble would have been avoided. I shall get a divorce and marry Mrs. Deane. I intend to remain in the ministry. I have done nothing save follow my heart."

Weakened by the advance of age until his heart and lungs responded only faintly, but with his mental faculties as clear and alert as ever, Shelby Moore Cullom, former Senator from Ill., who has bene constantly under the attention of medical advisers in Washington since before Christmas, last night was in a critical condition. Members of his family expressed fear that the inevitable was not far distant, though their hopes were encouraged by the remarkable display of fortitude and recuperation which the venerable statesman has shown. He is 84 years old. Affairs of national and private interest in which he has taken an active part during his long career are uppermost in his mind, his condition apparently being the least of his thoughts.

Capt. and Mrs. Nicholas Shepard, of Tuckerton, N. J., an aged couple living in a pretentious home near Barnegat Bay, lost their lives earty yesterday when their home was burned to the ground. The theory of the police is that they were murdered by robbers, who fired the house to cover their crime. The Shepards were considered one of the wealthiest family in vicinity of Tuckerton. Captain Shepard was 76 years old and his wife six years his junior. They were worth $400,000, it was said, $50,000 being invested in their home.

On finding that they were in a funeral procession with a non union brass band, a score of coach drivers quit on the spot in Trenton, N. J., yesterday. The unyielding mourners had no alternative left except to wend ther way to the cemetery on foot. They carried the coffin with them on the shoulders of six men. The mourners decided to stand by tht musicians, who were of the same nationality. The band struck up a dirge, the mourners fell into step and the procession preceeded slowly to the cemetery.

Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal high commissioner for Canada, died in London at an early hour this morning.

Tottering under the weight of his 80 years, William Eberstein stood in crminal court in Philadelphia yesterday and told a simple but dramatic story of how his wife, 15 years younger, had pleaded with him to kill her, and how he had committed the deed. After the old man had completed the story, Judge Walling, of Erie, Pa., temporarily presiding in the court, surveyed the bent form of the prisoner, fixed the crime at murder in the second degree and imposed the minimum penalty ,which in this case was practically a life sentence. It was solitary confinement in the penitentiary for not less than seven years or more than fourteen.

Police of Forth Worth, Tex., broke into the home of M. F. Taylor and discovered that Taylor, his wife, son Homer, aged 3, and daughter, Jessie, aged 2, had been shot to death. The bodies had lain in the home for six weeks without arousing any suspicion due to the fact that the home was closed and locked and because the Taylors early in December announced they were going on a visit to Oklahoma. The Taylors were known as being religious in fanaticism. Biblical quotations and all sorts of religious posters and literature were in every room. Poverty and overzeal in this direction probably caused a reversion of feeling, for all evidence indicated that their last night was an ugly...

WILL ESTABLISH NEW PRECEDENTS

Stuart's Inaugural Calls For Parade and Address At Capitol.

TWO-DAYS' EXERCISES.

Legal Inauguration Day Falls on Sunday—New Executive Will be Sworn in on Saturday.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 21.—The inauguration of Governor-Elect Stuart, which is due by law to take place on February 1, will establish several precedents in Virginia history. According to plans announced last night by the inauguration committee of the General Assembly, a military parade to escort Governor Mann and the incoming governor to the capital will be the chief spectacular feature, while the Governor-Elect for the first time within recollection, will deliver his inaugural address and take oath of office on the open portico of the capitol.

Further interest is added to the event by the fact that February 1 falls on Sunday, creating a situation for which there is no precedent. Under the new constitution, the Governor must be inaugurated on February 1, immediately following his election. No provision for unusual circumstances is made. By the terms of the old constitution, the retiring governor remained in office until his successor qualified. Should Mr. Stuart fail to take the office on or before February 1, the question of his legal eligibility for the office might easily be raised later in his administration.

In order to avoid such a contingency, the committee has decided to divide the inaugural exercises into two parts, one to be enacted in private on Saturday, January 31, and the other in public on Monday, February 2. If the committee adheres to this program Mr. Staurt will take the oath of office on two separate occasions.

The present plans of the committee provide that Mr. Stuart, with a small party of friends and officials, is to appear in the court room of the State Supreme Court on Saturday, January 31, and take the oath of office as governor before Judge Keith, president of the court, the officer whose duty it is to administer the oath to the incoming executive.

On Sunday morning Governor Mann will automatically cease to be the governor, although he will virtually retain the powers of office until after the public exercises on the following day. Mr. Stuart will not move into the executive offices until Monday.

KILLED BY FALL OF SCAFFOLD.

Painters at Work in Round-House Dropped 35 Feet, One Striking on Locomotive.

Philadelphia, Jan. 21.—One man was killed and six others were injured yesterday through the collapse of a scaffold on which they were standing while painting the inside of the roof of a Pennsylvania Railroad round-house at Thirty-second street and Powelton avenue. There were nine men working on the scaffold, but two had climbed down a moment before the accident.

The dead man was Albert Burns, 30 years old, of No. 3255 Chancellor street. He was the first to fall. His body alighted, head first, upon a locomotive 35 feet below. He had been married only six months.

PRESIDENT AND TRUSTS.

Executive Approves Four of Five Administration Bills.

President Wilson at a secret conference at the White House late last night, gave formal approval to four of the five administration bills, which are designed to carry out his anti-trust program. The President summoned to the White House Representative Henry D. Clayton, chairman of the house committee on the judiciary; Representative Charles C. Carlin, of Virginia, and John C. Floyd, of Arkansas, and Senator Francis G. Newlands, of Nevada, chairman of the Senate committee on interstate commerce. The bills were gone over at length, but it was decided not to introduce them in the House today, as had been contemplated. Instead tentative committee drafts will be prepared and distributed to the Democratic members of the House judiciary committee, and the Senate interstate commerce committee, and extensive hearings will be held.

President Wilson's suggestion to Congress yesterday in his trust address, that the government and business men are ready to meet each other halfway "in a common effort to square business methods with both public opinion and the law," fell on attentive ears and struck a responsive chord in representatives of differing political parties. The atmosphere of cooperation and "accommodation" in the message; the reforms proposed, expressed in terms of conservatism, and the spirit of friendliness to supersede antagonism in dealing with "big business," which dominated the President's thoughts, aroused expression of approval from all sides. Few discordant notes were sounded in comments from members of the Congress who are to pass upon legislation urged to prohibit monopoly and hold men of business within the law.

The chief points which the President singled out as a basis for legislation are:

1. Effectual prohibition of the interlocking of directorates of great corporations—banks, railroads, industrial, commercial and public service bodies.

2. A law to confer upon the Interstate Commerce Commission the power to superintend and regulate the financial operations by which railroads are henceforth to be supplied with the money they need for their proper development and improved transportation facilities.

The President made it clear that "the prosperity of the railroads and the prosperity of the country are inseparably connected" in this regard.

3. Definition of "the many hurtful restraints of trade" by explicit legislation supplementary to the Sherman law.

4. The creation of a commission to aid the courts and to act as a clearing house of information in helping business to conform with the law.

5. Provision of penalties and punishments to fall upon individuals responsible for unlawful business practices.

6. Prohibition of holding companies and a suggestion that the voting power of individuals holding shares in numerous corporations might be restricted.

7. Giving to private individuals the right to found suits for redress on facts and judgments proven in government suits, and providing that statute of limitation should run only frm the date of conclusion of the government's action.

AMENDMENTS TO ACT.

Enabling Bill Discussed in House of Delegates Yesterday.

Richmond, Jan. 21.—Amendments to the enabling act were discussed in the House of Delegates for several hours yesterday, and will be taken up again today. The most important amendment adopted on the second reading was the insertion, over the protest of the patron, Judge Martin Williams, of the term "qualified voters" as applying to those who may sign the petition to the governor for an election on the question of State-wide prohibition. Judge Williams proposed that it should read "registered voters," but the point was made that there are many thousands of people in Virginia who have registered but who have not paid any poll taxes in years, and who would be ineligible to vote on the issue itself, even though they petitioned for such an election.

SAYS THE ARMY WAS HOODOOED

Mercado Alleges That Coming of Orozco Brought Disaster.

MAKES UGLY CHARGES.

Rations And Shelter Provided For all —Captured Officers Express Their Gratitude.

El Paso, Tex., Jan. 21.—General Salvador Mercado, commander of the 3,300 Mexican Federal soldiers who fled into the United States after defeat at Ojinaga, and have been interned at Fort Bliss on the footing of prisoners of war, defended his abandonment of Ojinga and charged General Pascual Orozco, with cowardice and insubordination.

In defense of his abandonment of Ojinaga and in answer to criticisms from Mexico City, General Mercado detailed his reasons for taking asylum in this country. He said Orozco repeatedly had robbed the Federal provision train, had become arrogant, had refused to attack the rebels, had abandoned his own troops and had run away under fire to give the impression that he heroically would remain on the Mexican side to fight more battles, whereas Orozco, was afraid to cross into the United States because of an indictment pending against him here. He said Orozco had demanded money and had placed drunken officers at the head of his forces.

General Mercado charged that Generals Ynez Salazar and General Antonin Rojas, volunteer commanders, were cowardly under fire and that they abandoned their posts as soon as the rebels appeared.

General Mercado said he was ready to go to Mexico City to stand trial by Court martial. He said he would disprove charges that he left Chihuahua because of money furnished by the Terrazas family.

General Salvador Mercado, when his soldiers tumbled off the trains which brought them from Marfa, Tex., was still commander of his troops, but his authority was subordinate to that of the American officers. His duties were largely to assist in organizing the camp.

Still wearing bits of gold braid on his uniform, he worked directly under Brigadier General Hugh L. Scott of the United States army, and showed his gratitude for the treatment of himself and his men by telling the Mexxican soldiers to obey orders.

Similar eveidences of gratitude were shown by Generals Castro, Landa, Orpinal, Romero and Adana, all of whom made the long march on foot from Presidio, Tex., to Marfa, and thence by train to El Paso.

Soon after their arrival the refugees were spread over the reservation, mixing beans with chile and making tortillas out of flour furnished by the American army. How long the Mexicans are to be fed, sheltered and clothed by the United States army is not known, but the arrangements were based on the possibility of a long stay.

Young White Man Held.

Suffolk, Va, Jan. 21.—Clifton S. Duke, a young white man, native of Isle of Wight county, is confined in Nansemond county jail, awaiting the action of Roanoke authorities who want him on a serious charge.

The offense for which Duke is wanted is alleged to have been committed in Roanoke in December. Acting on information and a warrant sent out by the Roanoke chief of police, Chief Brinkley, of Suffolk, had Duke placed under arrest. He was taken in Franklin and brought to Suffolk Sunday night.

HID HER MONEY, FOUND ASHES.

Woman's Anxiety About Burglars Followed by Forgetfulness.

Summit, N. J., Jan. 21.—Believing that no burglar would dream of searching ashes in a coal stove for money, Mrs. George Wood placed $135 under the grate in her kitchen range when she went to Newark Monday. When she returned home she failed to remember where she had hidden her savings until she had decided to lok for the $135 a few hours after she had started the fire. If there hadn't bene four quarters and some coppers mixed with the greenbacks Mrs. Wood wouldn't have found anything except ashes.

ANOTHER MURDER IN NEW YORK CITY

Tragedy After "Dope Benny" is Convicted of Assault on Officer.

JURY IS TERRORIZED.

Sullen Crowd Causes Anxiety, and Men Who Brought in Verdict Escorted to Their Homes.

New York, Jan. 21.—Murder was the answer of New York gunmen here today to the announced police war of exxtermination against them. Almost simultaneously with the conviction this morning of "Dopey Benny" Fein, a notorious gang leader, for an attack on Police Sergeant Patrick Sheridan, five other gunmen in a Bowery saloon, known as "The Tub of Blood," shot and killed Thomas Murphy, after denouncing him as a "squealer."

A man known as "Gyp, the Blood," since the original gangster of that name was sent to Sing Sing, following the notorious Rosenthal murder, is said by the police to have been the slayer of Murphy.

"You squealed and sent him up the river," it is said the gangster snapped, as he leaned across a saloon table and pumped three bullets into Murphy's heart. As his vistim fell, Gyp II and four other men vanished from the place, and the police found only two men and two women in the groggery which they burst through the door.

They gave their names as Mrs. Grace Quentil, Helen Powers, J. J. Grilly, proprietor of the place, and Joseph Mera, his bartender. All declared they had no part in the killing but all were charged with homicide.

The assassination of Murphy was hardly more sensational than the conviction of "Dopey Benny," the gangster. It took a jury in Judge Malone's general session s court just forty-five minutes to convict the gunmen and, terrorized by consequences of their acts most of them accepted a hint from Judge Malone and were escorted to their homes by police, through a crowd of gunmen who stood sullen at the court's door.

The maximum sentence for "Dopey" Benny's offense is five years in the penitentiary. He will learn his fate Friday.

Fein's spirit was not broken by his conviction. As he was being led from the courtroom he leaned over toward Sergeant Sheridan and whispered sharply, "I'll get you yet."

The influence of the gangsters was seen during Fein's trial, when nine witnesses, four of them women, all declared the policeman had attacked the gangsters. All, however, told a different story in detail, and failed to impress the jury with the gangster's innocence.

CONGRESSMAN IN FIGHT.

Accused of Falsehood, Ben Johnson Hits John R. Shields.

Washington, Jan. 21.—Representative Ben Johnson, of Kentucky, chairman of the House Committee on District of Columbia Affairs, and John R. Shields, a Washington, attorney, had a fist fight in the committee room yesterday.

Representative Johnson charged Shields with being a "lobbyist." The lawyer branded this charge as "falsehoods." The Kentuckian then struck the attorney, knocking him down twice.

Johnson, after being grabbed by his friends, was scratched and struck by Shields in return. Furious because he was rendered helpless by the interposition of others Johnson, it is said, shouted that he would get a pistol and shoot Shields, broke from those who held him and darted into an inner room.

Shields left and when he tried to get back into the committee chahber later the crowd gathered restrained him.

At the time the trouble started a subcommittee of the committee of which Representative Johnson is chairman was holding a hearing on a bill to permit firemen and policemen to ride on the street cars without paying fares. Mr. Shields represented the policemen and firemen at the hearing.

Representative Johnson, who had been sick, walked into the room, listened a while, arose and told the committee that Mr. Shields was a "lobbyist," and that he had received pay for representing the street-crossing policemen last year when a bill was considered to give them higher pay. The Kentuckian added that the subcommittee should make sure they were not also "voting to pay some one $4,000 or $5,000 in lobbying fees "if they recommended the passage of the bill.

Scenting trouble, some one made a motion to adjourn, but Shields showed a disposition to answer, and Johnson walked over to Shield's side, almost touching him.

"Am I to be denied the privilege of making a reply to utterly false statements?" Shields asked.

At this remark Johnson struck the attorney and the fight was on.

"The affair is over as far I am concerned," said Congressman Johnson. "I have been in the game too long to keep a fight, I can either take a licking or give one."

CARNIVAL OF SKATERS.

South Fairfax Street Has Become Rink For Many Youngsters.

Since the completion of the vitrified roadway and granolithic sidewalks on Fairfax street, between Wolfe and Wilkes, that square has been alive with young people on roller skates. After school hours the sidewalks are crowded with boys and girls who enjoy the glee incident to gliding up and down the sidewalks as fast as possible.

While the sport is in nowise annoying to some people who rather enjoy the secenes, being glad to see the youngsters amuse themselves, some property owners have entered a mild protest and suggest that the boys and girls should use the vitrified roadway for their sport, and not the sidewalks, for various reasons. Several persons who have been taxed for the improvement allege that the skates are damaging the sidewalks, while others call attention to the fact that there is more or less danger of pedestrians being knocked down and injured, especially at night when the skaters are making high speed. Some of those engaging in the diversion are merging into manhood and womanhood and should they collide with passersby they or their victims would certainly be injured.

Complaints have been lodged with the authorities by some people who experience the annoyance, and while no one is disposed to interfere with the young people while they are amusing themselves, it is hoped by those interested that the revelers will use the roadway, which is adopted for their purposes, before somebody is hurt. The law forbids the use of sidewalks by roller skaters, and it is hoped the young people will adopt the above suggestion and not cause any one to adopt drastic measures. Boys will be boys and girls will be girls, but neither should engage in any sport dangerous to themselves or others or which is an annoyance to other people.

The above is, of course, applicable to all sections of the city where sidewalks are being used by roller skaters instead of the smooth brick roadways.

BILLS INTRODUCED.

Mr. Thornton has introduced the following in the State Senate:

A bill to amend and re-enact section 164 of the Code of Virginia of 1904, as amended by acts approved March 14, 1908, and March 17, 1910. Referred to the Committee for Courts of Justice.

A bill to authorize the Auditor of Public Accounts to pay out of the amount appropriated to pay criminal charges the allowances made jurors summoned from the city of Richmond to try a criminal case in the Corporation Court of the city of Alexandria. Referred to the Committee on Finance.

ROOF ON FIRE.

The alarm of fire shortly before one o'clock this afternoon was caused by the discovery of a blaze in the roof of dwelling No. 121 Prince street, between Lee and Union, occupied by W. H. Butler. The quick response of the department and their rapid work soon subdued the flames and prevented what might have resulted in a serious conflagration, as a brisk northwest wind was prevailing at the time. The roof, however, was considerably damaged before the fire was extinguished. Considerable excitement prevailed in the neighborhood at the time. A woman who was suffering from illness, was brought from the burning house while the firemen were at work.

STRUCK BY AUTOMOBILE

Collides With Baker's Wagon—Machine Rushes Away at High Speed

George P. Wilson, a driver for the Sanitation Bakery of Georgetown, was thrown from his wagon and dragged two and one-half blocks by his horses this morning at 2:45 a. m., when a big touring car crashed into his bread wagon on the road between Washington and Alexandria near the plant of the Hydraulic Brick Company. Wilson had left Washington with a load of bread which he was bringing to Alexandria when the automobile which was coming from Alexandria struck him, overturning the wagon and breaking the pole. The horses broke the traces and ran away, dragging Wilson behind them. The man hung onto the reins and managed to stop the team.

The automobile was running at a speed, estimated at 45 miles per hour, and carried no lights. After hitting the wagon the speed was increased and no stop was made. Wilson was severely bruised about the body and limbs.

PROPOSED PARADE ON 22d.

Committee of George Washington's Birthday Association Soliciting Funds.

The finance committee of the George Washington Birthday Association commenced work this morning to raise funds to pay the expenses of the parade to be given on February 23rd, to commemorate the birthday of the first President. This action followed a meeting of the directors of the association last night when plans for the parade were considered. It was decided to extend an invitation to President Wilson to attend and Representative Carlin has been asked to arranse an appointment with the President when an invitation will be tendered by a committee from the association.

CAPTAIN MURDERED.

Search For Two Negro Seamen on Charge of Committing Crime.

Bloody finger prints found on the deck of the schooner Mary Inez may lead to the arrest of two negro seamen charged with the murder of Capt. James E. Marks, whose dismembered body was found in a barrel floating in the Potomac River near Sanford, Va., Monday. The names of the two negroes are not known for Capt. Marks hired them in Baltimore and left no records on board his boat that would show the Maryland and Virginia authorities who they are.

Great blotches of blood, both in the interior of the boat and on deck showed the veteran seaman met a horrible death. Several finger prints, those of two persons, were found on the deck of the schooner which went adrift at Gwyn's Point. It is believed the prints were made by the murderers as they lifted their victim from the cabin of the ship to the deck. The Baltimore police have failed to get any trace of the negroes.

EFFECTS OF SPRING RIFLES.

Church Windows Targets of Mischievous Urchins.

The old First Presbyterian Church building on south Fairfax street, which has ceased to be used for public worship, has since the holidays had most of the panes of glass in the front windows smashed by shot from toy rifles which thoughtless dealers dispensed in this city to add to the dangers of Christmas times. An examination will show the power of the shots from these contrivances, as in some cases the holes in the glass are about as large as hickory nuts.

This venerable structure has had an eventful history. It was totally destroyed by lightning in 1835 and a few years ago another bolt struck the roof.

ORDERS FOR INSPECTION.

Orders for the annual inspection of the military companies of the state were issued today by Adjutant General W. W. Sale, of Richmond. That of Company G, First Infantry, known as the Alexandria Light Infantry and the headquarters of the Second Battalion, First Infantry, including the staff of Major James E King, of this city, will be held on April 2nd. Captain Arthur M. Shipp, U. S. A., has been detailed to make the inspection and will commence his work in the state on February 10th. The companies will be inspected at 8 o'clock at night and the men will wear olive drab service uniform with web cartridge belts.

The New Cretonnes, Printed Scrims, Marquisettes, Radium Cloths, and Other Spring Fabrics
In the Latest Designs and Colors

New Cretonnes—The showing is most extensive, embracing an array of beautiful designs and colorings, many of which have not made their appearance prior to this season, and cannot be seen elsewhere. The over prints or shado weffects are much in evidence, and the colorings are soft and pleasing, preserving the daintiness and refinement which is now being so much sought for. The selection of medium and dark effects is also very excellent, and the Printed Linens, Linen Taffetas, Reps, and other fabrics allows the satisfaction of every idea.

Striped Art Ticking—A great number of dainty designs and effective colorings, giving expression to the best that has been evolved. From the dainty to the bold and elaborate beautiful selections may be made, and in the delicate or more pronounced colorings. All Chintzes, Ivory Cloths, Radium Cloths, and various other weaves which have gained a wide recognition.

NEWS OF THE OLD DOMINION

WILD HOGS ATTACK HUNTERS.

Three Men Have Desperate Encounter With Drove Near Luray.

Luray, Va., Jan. 21.—Wild hogs of vicious type have just been discovered in the Blue Ridge, Page county, a hunting party composed of Lelon Taylor, William Berry, a few days ago having had a desperate encounter with a drove of them near the headwaters of the Hawskbill, about twelve or fifteen miles from Luray. The drove attacked the hunting party, forcing shotguns and rifles into use. After some of the hogs were killed the hunting party gathered reinforcements and started in pursuit of the beast, chasing them through the mountains about fifteen miles to the Madison county line, where others were killed.

The hogs are supposed to have degenerated from the domestic breeds that at one time were placed in the mountains by farmers of this county.

HE FORGOT LICENSE.

Wedding Waited While Chauffeur Sped to Clerk's Office.

Suffolk, Va., Jan. 21.—Too much in love to remember the marriage license, Mr. Rano King, of Richmond, and Miss Evelyn Whitley, both natives of Isle of Wight county, had a long wait at Corapeake, N. C., Monday night before the ceremony that united them, could be performed by Justice C W. Jones.

Mr. King, who is employed in the Jefferson Hotel, Richmond, and who is a son of A. D. King of Isle of Wight, and Miss Evelyn Whitley, the pretty 18-year-old daughter of Albert Whitley, also of Isle of Wight, arrived in Suffolk Sunday afternoon after a 20-mile drove from Smithfield, and securing an automobile from Michael Picard, left for Corapeake.

On arriving there the groom-elect, when asked by Justice Jones for the license, suddenly remembered that he had forgottn all about that necessary document.

A note was dispatched to the clerk of Gates county at Gatesville by the chauffeur, who spared no gasoline and made the trip, bringing back the license. After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. King motored the sixteen miles back to Suffolk, and securing their team, drove on to Longview, Isle of Wight county, arriving there about breakfast. The bride and groom made a total distance, driving in a buggy and automible, of seventy-two miles over indifferent country roads on their wedding day.

They left for Richmend, the home of the groom.

FIVE OUT OF 27 ESCAPED.

Virginian, Driven From Mexico, Dies From Hardships Endured.

Suffolk, Va., Jan. 21.—J. B. L. DeJarnette, superintendent of Public Instruction for Nansemond county, received a letter yesterday from his brother, J. D. Coleman DeJarnette, written two days before his death, which occurred in a hospital in Los Angeles, Cal., containing a story of hardships and adventure.

Mr. DeJarnette received telegraphic advice Saturday announcing the death of his brother. He was one of 27 Americans who were engaged in mining and oil developments for an American corporation in Mexico. The band was attacked by Mexicans and driven from the country. Mr. DeJarnette wrote that five escaped. The bones of the other 22 mark the trail to the American border.

Friends in California were communicated with and the body is now on its way to the family home in Caroline county, Virginia

VIRGINIA "ANTIS" ACTIVE.

Meetings Held in Richmond to Protest Against Equal Suffrage.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 21.—Mrs. Arthur M. Dodge, president of the National Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, and Miss Minnie Bronson, special secretary of the same organization, of New York, addressed the members of the executive board of the Virginia association yesterday. Miss Bronson conducted a meeting at night at the Young Men's Christian Association.

The association has workers in the lobbies of the two branches of the General Assembly now in session, and strong efforts are being made to offset the work of the Virginia Equal Suffrage League, which is waging a hot campaign.

The Equal Suffrage League has issued a call for the several hundred petitions which have been circulated throughout the State, and these petitions will be laid before the eglislature in an effort to secure the right of suffrage for women.

LAWS TO AID FARMERS.

Speakers at Institute Session Tell of Bills Before the Legislature.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 21.—The winter convention of the Virginia State Farmers' Institute was in session yesterday at Murphy's Hotel annex. Mayor George Ainslie delivered the welcoming address, which was responded to by President Westmoreland Davis.

President Davis, in his annual report told the farmers that the agricultural values in Virginia had doubled within the last ten years. In 1913, he declared, the agricultural values in Virginia amounted to $750,000,000.

President Davis urged the members to support the bill now before the General Assembly recommending a legislative reference bureau. He also urged the members to get behind the commission merchants' bill now before the general assembly requiring the licensing and bonding of commission merchants. This bill is framed along the lines of the New York state law.

Commissioner of Agriculture, G. W. Koiner predicted a prosperous future for the farmers of Virginia. Mr. Koiner urged the organization of clubs among farmers, for entertainment and social purposes.

J. D. Eggleston, president of Virginia Polytechnic Institute, said that institution should either receive an annual appropriation sufficient for its upkeep or close its doors to the seekers of agricultural knowledge in the state. He said he had appeared before the finance committee of the Senate and urged an appropriation of $70,000 for school improvements.

FIND ANOTHER WILL.

Kentucky Woman Says That She has "Copy" of Famous Document.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 21.—Senator R. E. Thornton has received a letter from Mrs. Mary Helm Washington, Irvington, Ky., informing him that she had a "copy" of the celebrated Martha Washington will. Senator Thornton says that Mrs. Washington writes that the will is the last one, that it bears the seal of the officials who recorded it, and he is inclined to believe that possibly it may be the real will.

He has written several letters in connection with the matter, and has asked the Clerk of Fredericksburg court for whatever information he can give as to the possibility of the will having been recorded there.

A wholly unconfirmed report that Emperor William had suffered a paralytic stroke caused a monetary scare on the London Stock Exchange. Consols dropped half a point, but soon recovered three-eights of the fall. It is officially declared in Berlin that there is no truth in the rumors current of the illness of Emperor William.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S TRUST MESSAGE.

Few public documents have been so well received as the one delivered by President Wilson in Congress yesterday. From all over the country come words of praise and congratulation for the wise and able manner in which the President has handled the subject of trusts, a problem which has been most difficult to arrive at a safe and sane conclusion.

In Wall street business was suspended while brokers and investors devoured the words of the man who was speaking in Washington. Optimism rose with every paragraph; the much dreaded crisis had come, and where panic had been feared trading was made brisk; where radical proposals had been expected sound statesmanship had been displayed.

There are seven proposals of the President. They are:

1. The prohibition of interlocking directorates so that those who buy and those who sell, those who borrow and those who lend, shall not be the same persons.

2. That the Interstate Commerce Commission shall have supervision of the operations by which in the future railroad companies shall raise capital.

3. That the terms of the Anti Trust law shall be made more explicit, so that men may know as definitely as possible what they may not do.

4. An Interstate Trade Commission which shall not control any business, but which shall have advisory powers to assist any corporation in keeping within the law, and shall obviate the necessity of legal proceedings.

5. That guilt is personal, and the penalties for violation of the law should fall upon the individuals responsible and not on the business itself.

6. The limitation of the voting power of shareholders, so that, while the individual investor may buy what stocks he pleases, he shall not virtually make himself a holding company.

7. That individuals injured by the operations of a monopoly shall have the right of using the case already made by the government in equity proceedings, instead of being required to go over the ground already covered and make out an entire case.

The first would end the dangerous practice of putting on directorates bankers through whose houses exclusively the directorates sell securities. The second has been asked for by some eminent railroad officials, who recognize that the governmental supervision of the raising of new capital would give the investors confidence and make it easier to raise money. The third has been asked for by many leaders in the business world who complain that in the present state of the law they do not know what is permitted and what is prohibited. The fourth calls for very much such a commission as George W. Perkins has proposed as a buffer between business concerns and the Department of Justice. The fifth would equitably transfer the penalties for violation of law from the shareholders to the officials of the corporation. The sixth is rather a suggestion than a recommendation, but it would leave investors free to put their money where they like, but prevent their ownership of controlling interests from effecting a virtual monopoly. It is not an untried measure, restriction upon voting power already existing in some English financial corporations. The seventh cannot be objected by any one. Where the Government has made out a case against a monopoly the individual who has suffered therefrom ought to be able to use all of the evidence and findings in making out his own claim for damages.

There is not in this remarkable paper a single sentence at which any honest man need be alarmed; there is in it not a single threat against that corporation which wishes to observe the law; there is only the most conservative patriotism and the most deliberate determination. To the investor the President would give a guarantee of the proper management of his money; to the offender the alternative of reformation or punishment; to the small business man the assurance of restored competition and equal opportunity.

PROPOSED PARADE ON THE TWENTY-SECOND.

An enthusiastic meeting of the George Washington Birthday Association was held last night for the purpose of further considering plans for the celebration of the birthday of George Washington on the 22d proximo. A committee was appointed for the purpose of soliciting contributions towards meeting the expenses incident to this celebration.

The 22d of February has been allowed to pass in the past few years without a parade, the main incidents in connection with the anniversary of the birth of the Father of the Country having been the banquet of Alexandria-Washington Lodge of Masons and the carrying out of the custom of placing a wreath upon the tomb at Mount Vernon.

The association determined at a meeting held several weeks ago to rouse interest in the proper celebration of the day, and as our people have always responded liberally towards making the parade on the anniversary of Washington's birth a decided success, they will doubtless manifest similar interest this year.

An invitation will be extended President Wilson to visit Alexandria on the occasion. Former President Taft, during the time he occupied the Presidential Chair, responded to invitations, and was a figure in this city on the 22d of February, as well as during the home-coming week.

It is hoped Mr. Wilson's calendar will not prevent his visit to Alexandria on this occasion.

JEALOUSY ENDS IN MURDER.

Negro Blows off Top of Rival's Head And is Killed.

Chatham, Va., Jan. 21.—Tuck Wilson, a negro labor, was shot and instantly killed by Frederick Jones, also a laborer, Sunday at midday on the White Oak Mountain estate of Mr. Raleigh Shields, who employed both of the men to work on his farm. Following the crime, which was committed in the presence of half a dozen eye-witnesses, Jones made his escape, but was captured at Alta Vista, and is now safe in Chatham jail.

The murder appears to have been the outcome of the affection which each one is said to have borne to a negress. On Sunday afternoon a crowd of negroes assembled at the home of Jones' father where whisky was drunk. Wilson and Jones became involved in an argument over the girl, and it is said that Jones secured a shotgun, and, approaching Wilson from the rear, put the muzzle to his head and blew the top of his head away.

Throwing down the gun, Jones made away, and hid by the side of the railway track all night long and swung on to train No. 10, a local train He was later captured at Alta Vista.

Mr. Frank C. Steward, President,
Steward's Business College.
Dear Sir:

I wish to offer you my hearty congratulations upon the really remarkable success of Steward's Business College. I know of no institution in Washington in the last twenty years that has made such wonderful strides in such a short space of time as your college has. It is possible, however, that when one thoroughly understands your methods that your phenomenal growth will not seem so remarkable, and I believe that as people become to understand it your future growth will be greater than your past and present.

Assuring you of my wishes that my prophecy will come true, I am
Most sincerely yours,

Calomel Out of a Job Since Hot Springs Liver Buttons Arrived in Town.

No reason on earth why any one in this town should put up with a lazy, stubborn, mean or rebellious liver, since wonderful HOT SPRINGS LIVER BUTTONS are in every drug store here.

Forget about calomel right now; better throw it in the ash heap along with your pills, salts, oils and other makeshifts. You won't want any more to do with any of them once you give blissful, gentle HOT SPRINGS LIVER BUTTONS a chance.

They surely are a great blessing to old people and women who suffer from chronic constipation. They are so joyfully satisfying and leave no bad after effects.

Take them for what the doctors of Hot Springs prescribe them. For constipation, nervousness, clogged liver, upset stomach, dizziness, sick headache, malaria, laziness, lack of appetite; absence of ambition and for sallow and pimply skin. Their action will prove a happy revelation to you.

All druggists, everywhere 25 cents. Sample free from Hot Springs Chemical Company, (Hot Springs, Arkansas. (28.)

HOW GOOD THAT MUSTFROLE Feels!

A-a-h! That's delicious relief for those sore muscles, those stiff joints, that lame back.

MUSTEROLE is a clean, white ointment, made with oil of mustard, and other home simples.

It does the work of the old fashioned mustard plaster, minus the plaster and minus the blister!

You simply rub MUSTEROLE on the spot where the pain is—rub it on briskly—and the pain is gone.

No muss, no bother. Just comforting, soothing relief—first a gentle glow, then a delightful sense of coolness. And best of all, no blisters like the old-fashioned mustard plasters used to make.

There is nothing like MUSTEROLE for Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Tonsilitis, Croup, Stiff Neck, Asthma, Neuralgia, Headache, Congestion, Pleurisy, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Pains and aches of the back or joints, Sprains, Sore Muscles, Bruises, Chilblains, Frosted Feet and Colds of the Chest (it prevents Pneumonia.)

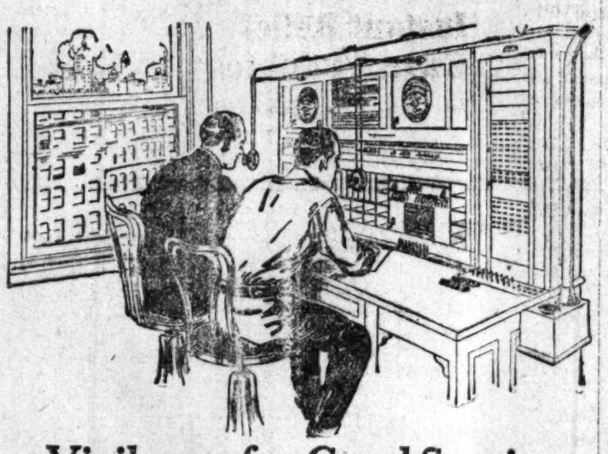
Doctors and Nurses frankly recommend MUSTEROLE It is used in large hospitals.

MUSTEROLE

At your druggist's, in 25c and 50c jars and a special large hospital size for $2.50.

Accept no substitute. If your druggist cannot supply you, send 25c or 50c to the MUSTEROLE Co., Cleveland, O., and we will send you a jar postage prepaid. (36)

Charles H. Kelly, Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have great faith in Musterole; indeed, I rave prescribe it for several of my patients this week; it is a valuable remedy."



Vigilance for Good Service

Every Bell telephone exchange in every city has a wire chief on duty day and night. His is the important task of seeing that the lines are kept constantly in good working order.

Day and night the work of testing the lines and apparatus goes on. Complaints are promptly followed up. Trouble on the line is frequently cleared before the subscriber knows it has occurred.

Constant vigilance on the part of the wire chief keeps the talk tracks ready for instant and continuous service.

STATE MILITIA DEFENDED.

Adjutant-General Takes Exception to Mill's Arraignment of Troops.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 20.—Exception is taken by Adjutant-General Sale to the arraignment of the Virginia militia contained in the annual report of Brigader-General A. L. Mills, chief of the division of militia affairs of the War Department, made public yesterday in Washington. The report is particularly severe on this state in the matter of property shortages, charging that Virginia is responsible for a loss in the last decade of military equipment valued at $105,000.

According to General Mills, Virginia ranks twenty-fourth among the States in the number of men trained for military duty, having only 2,650 of its 389,728 eligibles enrolled in the organized militia. The losses in equipment are attributed to faulty accounting and a failure to care properly for fire arms, uniforms and other military requisites.

While the statement as to the number enrolled is correct, said General Sale yesterday, Virginia has today, a most efficient, fully-uniformed, well-instructed and properly organized body of troops. The last report, he said, showed that the attendance required by the War Department was complied with by all but two of the three companies. The estimate as to the property shortage attributable to Virginia, he said, is erroneous.

"We have just completed an actual inventory of property throughout the entire State, and find that the shortage will not amount to more than $27,000 or $30,000," said General Sale. The great discrepancy between the shortage of $105,000 reported by the War Department and the actual figures is due to the fact that the United States inspecting officers in their inspection for 1913, failed to include in their reports the dress clothing and dress equipment, of which there is an enormous quantity in this state. This actual shortage of $27,000 covers a period of four-teen years, and will not amount to more than $2,000 a year, or scarcely a year for uniforms and equipment for each enlisted man in the Virginia Volunteers."

When General Sale assumed office he stated, the property shortage amounted to considerably more than $30,000. Since the institution during his incumbency of inventory inspections and the practice of charging property shortage to the companies' allotments from the military fund, there have been practically no shortages since December 31, 1911. Virginia, it was pointed out by General Sale, yesterday, was the first State to institute annual inventory inspections, being a year ahead of the War Department in this respect, as far as the militia is concerned.

"The State of Virginia has every reason to be gratified at the present condition of its organized militia," said General Sale, "and of the satisfactory manner in which the formerly perplexing question of property shortage has been adjusted. There is small reason for any actual complaint on the part of the War Department so far as the State of Virginia is concerned. As regards its militia, it will compare more than favorably with other States in the Nation."

Since 1893, Building the Famous Apperson Jack Rabbit Cars

The Wizard of the Hills

With their own hands, 21 years ago, Elmer and Edgar Apperson built America's first automobile, and in all that time no Apperson car has ever worn out; nor have they ever built a car that developed chronic trouble. They are the only makers who hold such a record. Judge the wonderful car that must come from that wealth of experience, for it is greater than that of any other maker.

And remember this: The Apperson Jack Rabbit is manufactured from hub to hub in Apperson factories. It is not an assembled car. Think what this means. Absolute mechanical perfection, pureness in production, prompt deliveries, and no divided responsibility.

HAMILTON & CO.

In Memoriam—William Wilson Finley

The Board of Directors of Southern Railway Company having assembled in special meeting this first day of December, 1913, and being advised of the death, at his home in Washington on November 25, 1913, of William Wilson Finley, for the past seven years President of Southern Railway Company, adopts the following minute to be spread on the records of the Company and to be published in the newspapers of the South.

WILLIAM WILSON FINLEY was born at Pass Christian, Mississippi, on September 2, 1853, and entered railway service in New Orleans in 1873. During the succeeding twenty-two years he had a varied experience, earning steady promotion and a growing reputation, in the traffic departments of several railroads and in charge of traffic associations, in the west and southwest. In 1895, soon after the organization of Southern Railway Company, he began, as Third Vice-President in charge of traffic, his service for this Company in which, with an interval of a few months in 1896, he continued until his death eighteen years later.

He became President of this Company in December, 1906, at a moment when the work of gathering in and welding together its lines into a consolidated system had been done. The map had been made. There are no more miles of railroad included in the system today than there were when he became President. His task was, therefore, complementary to the work already done and the history of the development of the property during the past seven years is the history of how he conceived and accomplished that task of conservation and progressive development. During his administration the revenues of the Company increased 20.95 per cent. (comparing 1913 with 1907), but what is even more his achievement, the balance of income available for dividend (but largely put back into the property) increased 209.07 per cent.

This record of material success is in no small measure the result of Mr. Finley's policy and practice of building and strengthening a working organization of the Company so far as concerns personnel. He inaugurated and steadfastly enforced a rule of promotion to fill vacancies within the organization, by recognition of demonstrated merit, with the result that he secured and conserved that loyal identification with the interest of the South and of the Company, and that sense of personal responsibility in all ranks of the service, which is one of the most valuable assets the Company has today.

On the public side of his responsibility Mr. Finley developed largely during the past seven years. Convinced of the duty of accepting the changed conditions in respect of the administration of industry incident to the governmental policy of regulation of the railways by public authority, he was nevertheless keenly impressed with the apparent lack of understanding on the part of the public of the problems of railway management. He, therefore, devoted much of his time to the discussion of such questions before representative audiences in all parts of the country, but chiefly in the South, and the effect upon public opinion of his frank, straightforward and manly utterances and patiently iterated doctrine has been long recognized, but was remarkably demonstrated by the expressions which have been received since his death from public bodies throughout the South. He did much in this way to correct a sentiment from which all railway property has suffered in recent years—a sentiment which has found its expression in an erroneous belief that a railway takes from the public more than it gives, and his effort in word and deed was to restore a just balance of understanding of the economic necessity, to every citizen in his daily life, of a well maintained, honestly administered and prosperous transportation system.

In other ways also he gave expression to a broad view of the indentity of interest between the welfare of the railways and that of the public. He lent active co-operation to the chief educational, industrial and commercial interests of the South, and a moral support to every movement which is making for the welfare of the South, but perhaps his greatest service of this nature was his successful campaign for the promotion of better agriculture.

Gently born and gently bred, it was Mr. Finley's fortune to be thrown upon his own resources at an early age and without the advantages of a university training and experience usually enjoyed by his associates: it was, therefore, a peculiar satisfaction to him and to his friends that in 1910 he received, with the assurance that it was no mere decoration, a degree of Doctor of Laws from Tulane University at New Orleans, the principal seat of learning in the community where he had spent his youth.

On the personal side, Mr. Finley was essentially a gentleman: he demonstrated on many occasions the combination in his character of those qualities which may be expressed by the words modesty and courage. He was fair and just in all his dealings, courteous to all men, slow to anger, but fierce in his resentment of injustice in others. Partisan in his love for and belief in the South and its future and in the Southern Railway as an important factor in that community, he convinced his associates that he never allowed partisan feeling to colour his judgment to such an extent that he could not always see the other side: but a policy once determined he set about its accomplishment with a characteristic belief in the potency of persistence and an unhesitating use of all the power at his command.

He had at all times the confidence, the respect and the good will of this Board and of every member of it, and in his death the Board and every member of it feels the loss of a friend of charming personal qualities as well as an official associate of commanding ability.

The Secretary is directed to express to the surviving members of Mr. Finley's family the respectful sympathy of this Board and to transmit to them a suitably engrossed and attested transcript of this minute.

CHIEF OF POLICE KILLED.

Renewal of Long Standing Quarrel Results in Tragedy.

Greenville, S. C., Jan. 21.—Bad feelin gthat started many months ago between S. M. Pollard, a merchant, at Fairville, a village near here, and T. H. Smith chief of police at that place, terminated Sunday morning in the death of Smith as a result of bullet wounds inflicted by Pollard Saturday night. Pollard was arrested immediately after the shooting and bail having been denied, is now in the county jail.

There had been bad blood between the two men for some time. Saturday night Smith went into Pollard's store and upon his refusal to leave when ordered by Pollard to do so, there followed a quarrel.

At length Pollard drew a revolver, following which the two men grappled for a moment. Freeing the hand that gripped the weapon, Pollard fired upon Smith, the bullet taking effect in the Police chief's abdomen, while a second shot went through his hand. Smith collapsed, crumpling up at the feet of his adversary, but being taken out of the store, he managed to get hold of his own pistol. He fired at Pollard but the bullet went wild.

Smith was hurried to a hospital at Washington, N. C., and there died early Sunday morning. The body was buried here this afternoon, the funeral services being attended by a large crowd. There is much feeling in the community over the affair.

Smith is survived by a widow and several children. Pollard has a large family.

PROFFSSOR SUES BARON.

Dr. Appleby Seeks to Recover $20,000 Paid For Jewelry.

London, Jan. 21.—Great interest has been aroused by the suit to recover $20,000 brought by Dr. Ernest Villiers Appleby, formerly lecturer at the University of Minnesota, against Baroness May de Pallandt, an American woman, whose relatives live in Chicago and who 12 years ago was the wife of Baron de Pallandt. The case was tried in the King's Bench Division of the High Court.

The dispute was a sequel to a chance meeting of the plaintiff and defendant in 1903 on a train running between Chicago and New York. This led to the infatuation of the plaintiff and subsequent close relations.

Dr. Appleby, in his pleadings, declared that the baroness agreed to repay him for certain notes which he gave to a Parisian jeweler for a string of pearls.

The baroness denies this statement and says that if there was any such agreement it was founded on "an immoral consideration." She counter claims the sum of $29,000 alleged to be due her by Dr. Appleby.

According to the testimony Dr. Appleby was anxious to marry the baroness, but she refused.

The Parisian jeweler sued by Appleby on the notes, which the Baroness had refused to meet, and the present suit followed.

$50,000 TO HIS FIANCE.

Richard D. Lankford Leaves Same Amount to His Mother at Princess Anne, Md.

New York, Jan. 21.—The will of Richard Dixie Lankford, vice-president and secretary of the Southern Railway and director of many allied corporations, who was found dead of gas poisoning in his bachelor apartment at 1140 Pacific street last Thursday, has been admitted to probate in the Surrogate's office, Brooklyn.

The estate is reported to be worth $100,000. It was presented by Heyn & Covington, attorneys, 60 Wall St. The document, which was in the handwriting of the testator, was drawn up on May 17, 1913, and witnessed by Edwin A. Merrill, of 15 East Fifth Avenue Rosedale, N. J. and Charles E. McCarthy, of 421 Fifth street, Brooklyn.

To Miss Nellie Small Patterson, the young woman whom he was to have married on last Saturday, Mr. Lankford left half of his residuary estate and all of his books, bookcases, and photographs. The other half of his residuary estate and the house in which she now lives, the lot and all the furnishings the testator left to his mother, Mrs. Priscilla Elizabeth Lankford, of Depot St., Princess Anne, Md. To his brother, Columbus, was left all of the testator's wearing apparel and $1,000 in cash.

James Upshire Dennis, of Baltimore, was named as executor. No schedule was filed with the will to indicate the amount of Mr. Lankford's estate.
